

SOCIETY

Mrs. Clifton Carter's Tea.

One of the smartest society functions of the week was the reception given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Clifton Carroll Carter, between the hours of four and six. The hostess, mother, Mrs. Coleman of Baltimore, was the complimented guest. The interior of Captain and Mrs. Carter's home on College street was decorated in rose pink chrysanthemums and palms. A pretty effect was produced by drawing the blinds and using artificial lights. The numerous electric light bulbs were enveloped in rose pink shades and the subdued light was effective and very becoming. The hostess and her guest of honor received in the drawing room. Mrs. M. M. McCann served the tea in the dining room and Mrs. Neville poured tea. The first table at which these service women were seated was attractively decorated with rose pink chrysanthemums. Over the center of the table was suspended a dainty lamp encased with a large shade of rose pink. Mesdames Edward J. Timberlake, Arthur Marx, Putnam, Edwards, Daniel Hand, Wilbur, assisted in the entertainment and serving of the guests.

Among those present were: Mesdames Montgomery Macomb, Wooten, Neville, Timberlake, Williams, Wilbur, Whiffeld, Pratt, Putnam, James M. Kennedy, Tuttle, John S. Johnson, Baird, Walker, Clark, Cleghorn, James, Wilder, Kelly, Hamilton, Gerrit, Wilder, Francis M. Swamy, Watkins, W. F. Dillingham, Ivers, M. M. Scott, Miss Scott, W. Whitney, Roy S. Smith, Miss Mary Carter, Andrew, Fuller, Kleban, Campbell, Balleentyne, Gaylor, Newcombe, Locke, L. Tenney, Peck, George, Potter, Marx, Game, Edwards, Misses Agnes Walker, Stephens, Cooper, Winnie, Uecker, Mesdames Osborne, Charles Chillingworth, Weaver, E. Waterhouse, Cooke, Hobdy, Shepherd, Warner, John Elliott, Rumbough, Cunningham, Dan Hand, Hopkins, A. Davis, Robertson (2), Miss Helen Achilles, Misses McStocker (2), Mrs. Elizabeth Church and others.

Judge and Mrs. Whitney's Dancing Party.

General and Mrs. Montgomery Macomb, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Major and Mrs. Wooten, Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse, Captain and Mrs. Clifton Carroll Carter, Mr. and Mrs.

George Davies, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Prosser, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilder, Lieut. and Mrs. Roy Francis Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Hepburn, Mr. and Mrs. Sheedy, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hommedieu, Mr. and Mrs. William Love, Mr. and Mrs. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Sutton, Miss Ethel Spelling, Miss Laura Nott, the Misses Ko Ke, Miss Ethel Bishop, Miss Helen Achilles, Governor Frear and Messrs. Sherwood Lowrey, Robert Thompson, Albert Clark, Ralph Homer, Geo. Fuller, Dixon Nott, Ed. Hedemann, R. Mier and Lieut. Andrews were among the guests who enjoyed the hospitality of Judge and Mrs. Whitney. An informal dancing party that was given at their home. The decorations were artistic and pretty, white roses and palms adorned the pretty home, later in the evening a buffet supper was served.

Miss Swanby's Buffet Luncheon.

Twenty-five guests enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Nora Swanby at a buffet luncheon that was given Wednesday at her home on College hills. The decorations were carried out by means of purple violets. After the luncheon much merriment was occasioned when the hostess brought out vegetables, consisting of carrots, beets, turnips, potatoes, etc., and each guest was requested to dress them in colored tissue paper. So much ingenuity was displayed in the competition that it was difficult to award the prizes, which was done by the hostess. The Miss Muriel Howatt won the first prize—a handsome pair of bonnet slippers—for dressing a potato to represent a boy doll. Miss Katherine Stephens was a close second—and was awarded a basket of violets. Her handiwork represented a beet, dressed as a society woman, in a crepe paper dress of mauve, with touches of green. Even the earrings were not forgotten, which were fashioned out of fancy jeweled pins. The vegetables were so cleverly disguised, and as most of them were made to represent dolls. Mrs. Francis M. Swamy who is always planning the comfort and pleasure of others sent the improvised dolls to the Salvation Army home, where they gladdened the hearts of the tiny inmates.

Mrs. Edward Julius Timberlake, whose portrait is shown on the society page today, is one of the most popular society women of Honolulu, and is a universal favorite among the army and navy folk as well. Mrs. Timberlake comes from one of the oldest families in Nashville, Tennessee, where she spent her girlhood days, prior to her marriage to Major Timberlake of the U. S. Army. This young army matron is not only accomplished and beautiful but possesses such a pleasing personality that endears her to every one. When Major Timberlake was in command at Fort Hunt, Washington D. C., he and his wife were leaders in the "Capital City."

Wednesday Bridge Club.

Mrs. Neville will entertain the Wednesday Bridge Club next week at her home on College hills.

Mrs. Kennedy's Reception.

The next important society event of the season will be the reception that is to be given at Fort Shafter by Mrs. James Madison Kennedy, wife of Major Kennedy. The hours of the reception are from four to six; Tuesday of next week has been chosen for the auspicious occasion. The color scheme will be yellow and green, numerous chrysanthemums in this shade will be used, to further the plan of decorations. Mrs. Kennedy makes an ideal hostess, her skill in bringing congenial people under her hospitable roof has often been remarked upon—this is one of the essentials in making entertainments successful, and enjoyable, but this point is often overlooked by a less experienced hostess. The coming function is being given in honor of Mrs. Freeman, and the other ladies of the Second Infantry whose husbands have been recently ordered for duty at Fort Shafter. Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. Fredendall and Mrs. Johnston, will receive with the hostess. Mrs. Tuttle of Fort De Russy and Mrs. Schlaner will pour the tea and coffee and Mrs. George Dudley Graham of Schofield Barracks will preside over the punch table. Miss Marjorie Allen has been asked to assist in the entertainment of the guests. The invitation list numbers nearly two hundred. Following is the form of the invitation:

Mrs. James Madison Kennedy invites you to meet The Ladies of the Second Infantry on Tuesday, October the twenty-fourth from four to six.

Mrs. Alfred Castle's Luncheon.

Amongst the daintily appointed luncheons of the autumn season was the affair given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Alfred Castle. Miss Gladly, who is a guest at the Hotel Pleasanton, was the motif for the entertainment. Covers were laid for eight, and the color scheme was in yellow. Large chrysanthemums, in this shade, were used effectively in the dining room. Among Mrs. Alfred Castle's guests were Miss Gladly, Mrs. John Waldron, Mrs. Gusav Schaefer, Miss Bernice Hartwell, Miss Laura Nott, Miss Dorothy Hartwell, Miss Ethel Bishop, Miss Helen Achilles, Miss Laura Nott and others.

Paper Wedding Celebration.

Lieut. and Mrs. Ross Kingsbury were tendered a pleasant surprise by a coterie of friends, who remembered that October the nineteenth was the anniversary of the young couple's wedding. Mrs. Kingsbury's mother, Mrs. John Elliott was consulted and the details of the proposed entertainment was kept secret. Friends invited Lieut. and Mrs. Ross Kingsbury to dinner as soon as they left to fulfill this social engagement, their friends took possession of their home on Lunalilo street, and in a short time the interior assumed the appearance of a gala occasion. As it was their "paper wedding," the living room and dining room were garlanded with streamers of paper, representing flowers and tropical greens. The long table in the dining room, from which the "rare-bits" and buffet supper was served later in the evening, was covered with a cloth of crepe paper, embossed with yellow chrysanthemums, the napkins were also of paper, designed to match the cloth. In the center was a bouquet of "shaggy chrysanthemums," made out of yellow tissue paper. The plates receptacles for bon-bons and dainties were in paper. The large wedding cake, which later was cut by the "bride of a year" was elaborately decorated with paper flowers. Shortly before nine o'clock Lieut. and Mrs. Kingsbury were telephoned for, the message stating that an important cable had arrived. The house was dark but as they entered their home, the electricity was turned on and their friends greeted them. Every one wore a fancy cap of paper and blew paper horns and showered the young couple with confetti and there was pandemonium for a few minutes. The effectiveness of the decorations were enhanced by the striding of myriads of Japanese paper lanterns, lighted by wax tapers. Among those who enjoyed this unique entertainment were Lieut. and Mrs. Kingsbury, Mrs. John Elliott, Captain and Mrs. Gaylor, Lieut. and Mrs. Roy F. Smith, Major and Mrs. Neville, Captain and Mrs. Marx, Mr. and Mrs. Ditson, Mr. Richard Wright, Miss Edith Cowles, Miss K. Stephens, the Misses McStocker, Lieut. Blair, Lieut. Sahn, Captain Haight and others.

Mrs. Frederick Macfarlane's Luncheon. The bridge luncheon that was given in honor of Mrs. Croft, yesterday afternoon, was one of the pleasurable affairs of the week. Among the society women who motored to the peninsula and partook of Mrs. Macfarlane's hospitality were: Mesdames Croft, Jack Dowsett, A. J. Campbell, Princess Kaniannale, Lanza, Herman Foeke, Hagen, Frank Richardson, E. Stickable, Bruce Edwin Paris, Haneberg and others.

Mrs. Fred Waldron's Tea.

Mrs. Fred Waldron entertained at a charmingly appointed tea, Thursday afternoon, in honor of her house guest, Miss Honewood of Australia. Pink chrysanthemums and palms adorned the drawing room where the receiving party stood. The dining room where Mrs. Frank Blake served tea, and Mrs. Marston Campbell poured tea, was elaborately decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. The spacious lanais had a tropical appearance, for numerous hanging baskets of ferns and potted plants were in evidence. Clusters of scarlet exorais, gave a touch of color that added to the beauty of the general decoration. About sixty guests were present.

Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

Vocal Selections, Cards and Dancing. Mr. John Kennedy, formerly a businessman of Honolulu, has arrived safely in Ashland, Oregon, where he has purchased the lovely home of Dr. Carson. This residence is surrounded by a large orchard of apples, peaches and other fine bearing fruit trees. The house is handsomely furnished and ready for occupancy. Mrs. John Kennedy, who has been residing on Twelfth avenue, Kaimuki, will sail with her family on the Honolulu, en route for her new home in Ashland.

Captain and Mrs. Freeman, the former commandant at Fort Shafter, are charmed with their new station and are enjoying the hospitality of their friends in the service.

COMINGS AND GOINGS OF THE SMART SET

Mrs. Walter Cowles, wife of Admiral Cowles, has been suffering from a severe attack of dengue fever and has been unable to make any social engagements during the week.

Miss Marion Scott, who has been visiting Mrs. James Wilder for the past month on Mount Tantalus, returned to her home the first part of this week.

Canon and Mrs. Osborne are planning a pleasurable European trip that will extend over a year. They will leave Honolulu on the fifteenth of this month. If their present project is carried out, they will spend the holiday season with relatives in England. Admiral and Mrs. Walter Cowles have leased the Usborne's beautiful home on Wilder avenue, which they will occupy after the middle of November.

Mrs. Rodolph Perry Scudder will visit Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Blanchard while the Pacific fleet is here. Mrs. Scudder's husband is in command of the torpedo boat Truxton.

Mrs. John Elliott, who has been visiting Major and Mrs. Rumbough at Schofield Barracks, returned to town Tuesday.

Wednesday Major and Mrs. Wooten were pleasantly entertained on Mount Tantalus by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Francis Dillingham. The Major and his wife started from town early in the morning, enjoying the drive up the mountain, and arrived at the summit several hours before luncheon. A delightful outing was experienced. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dillingham have been entertaining in their mountain home, but all their entertainments have been of an informal character.

Mrs. Johnstone, wife of Dr. Johnstone of Fort Shafter, and her niece, Miss Marjorie Allen, arrived this week and are being accorded a hearty welcome by their friends. Miss Allen has visited before with her uncle and aunt at Fort Shafter, and has a large circle of friends in Honolulu.

The Hon. Ed. Towse returned this week to his home in Kaimuki from the Queen's Hospital, where he underwent a painful operation a fortnight ago.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Tenney Peck are building an artistic bungalow at Kohala, where they will spend the warm summer months and give week-end parties during the winter season.

Miss Alice Cooper looks very stunning driving her new Hupmobile runabout that was presented to her as a gift from her father about a fortnight ago.

Mrs. Walter Frear, wife of Governor Frear, and their two children are expected to arrive in Honolulu the first week in December, Mrs. Frear having decided to return to this city in time for the holiday season.

Colonel and Mrs. Rumbough, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Hopkins and Captain Dan Hand motored into town Wednesday from Schofield Barracks. The ladies attended the reception that was given on that day by Mrs. Clifton Carroll Carter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham are receiving the congratulations of their friends over the arrival of a son, who arrived in Honolulu Sunday, October 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Macfarlane and Miss Alice Macfarlane are sojourning at their suburban home at the peninsula.

Father Houlahan of Schofield Barracks and Father Valentine are enjoying a well-earned vacation on Molokai, where they have planned to remain a fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay, Louisiana sugar planters, have been spending a fortnight at the Haleiwa Hotel.

Miss Harriet Hatch and Miss Alice Cooke are visiting on Molokai at the Cooke ranch.

Miss Anna Paris has taken a small house on Hotel street, where she is now residing. Her book of poems has become very popular, not only in Hawaii, but abroad as well. A number of favorable criticisms have appeared in the English papers.

Miss Anna Danford is still with her sister, Mrs. Vincent Kitchin, of Morton, New Zealand.
